Oscillatory Positive Expiratory Pressure Devices

Description:

Oscillatory positive expiratory pressure devices (The Flutter and Acapella) are hand-held devices designed to facilitate clearance of mucus in hypersecretory lung disorders, such as cystic fibrosis and asthma. Exhalation through the device produces an oscillating resistance which creates both endo-bronchial positive pressure pulses and expiratory flow interruptions. The vibrating effect is reported to aid mucus elimination and mucociliary function.

Oscillatory positive expiratory pressure devices are used for persons with hypersecretory lung disorders.

This medical policy is made available to you for informational purposes only. It is not a guarantee of payment or a substitute for your medical judgement in the treatment of your patients. Benefits and eligibility are determined by the member's subscriber agreement or member certificate and/or the employer agreement, and those documents will supersede the provisions of this medical policy. For information on member-specific benefits, call the provider call center. If you provide services to a member which are determined to not be medically necessary (or in some cases medically necessary services which are non-covered benefits), you may not charge the member for the services unless you have informed the member and they have agreed in writing in advance to continue with the treatment at their own expense. Please refer to your participation agreement(s) for the applicable provisions.

This policy is current at the time of publication; however, medical practices, technology, and knowledge are constantly changing. BCBSRI reserves the right to review and revise this policy for any reason and at any time, with or without notice.
